Dear Sir / Madam,

APPLICATION FOR A 2013 TEACHING FELLOWSHIP

Please find enclosed my application for the above prize. I am a Design Tutor at the University of Edinburgh, Scotland, UK, engaged in teaching undergraduates at several levels. I attach a proposed syllabus, outline programme, course credits and written support from my Head of School. I have omitted images due to the instructions on length and filesize, but provide hyperlinks in the documents and can send over example work immediately if requested.

I am keen to enhance the teaching of socially-inclusive architectural thinking in the Design Studio and find your competition and the possible funds available would give me an ideal opportunity to pursue this direction within the university, engaging external partners and assuring funds for valuable events and possibly publication(s). I am excited to have found a group of external partners engaged in parallel research and with a shared enthusiasm: this could not have come at a better time.

Socially Inclusive Design engages my passions and luckily, both my academic and professional practice. I provide brief details in the attached summary of credentials: again, more can be found on my practice websites, www.erhq.co.uk and www.wyattmaclaren.com.

Many thanks for the opportunity of sharing my plans with you. I look forward to hearing from you, yours sincerely,

Alex MacLaren RIBA
